Week 6

Tēnā koutou katoa

What an eventful week everyone!

We have been to Wellington, had an Asthma performance delivered to us, a productive netball meeting on Wednesday night in Martinborough, a professional development day for two teachers, a student council meeting, a ukulele lesson and have a triathlon today!

I went to the Tomorrow Schools review day yesterday with all of the principals in the Wairarapa. This gave us the chance to discuss the report and the last 30 years in New Zealand Education, and question the next steps as we move forward. The national report is available online and you can find it by typing 'tomorrow schools review' into Google. Small rural schools have been identified as needing extra support and resourcing, that doesn't interfere with their capability to remain unique. The challenge often seems to be having the required support whilst not being 'controlled' by the external agencies that are involved in education. I believe that there will be many positive changes in education over the next few years. Exciting times ahead.

Thanks for helping to make Wednesday a special day for our students. I was very impressed with the learning, behaviour, and team work during the day. Very often, leaders from the community comment to me on how well behaved our students are. We are fortunate at Pirinoa School that we have so much support from our parents, which allows us to be ambitious with school trips. Thanks for helping us create excellent learning opportunities for all students. Ms Lagah has also worked extremely hard to ensure the day went as smoothly as possible.

I made it to the Nigel Latta speech last night and thoroughly enjoyed it. He spoke about our rapidly changing world alongside our 'stone age' brains. I was interested in his thoughts on our education system and how it is changing. He spoke about the importance of the four C's being Curiosity, Communication, Critical Thinking, and Collaboration. These four C's are key components of living a successful life in the 21st Century. He also said that 50% of our current jobs will be gone in 20 years. I'm not sure if that will eventuate, but time will tell! Please share your thoughts on these ideas with me, as it helps drive what we value as a community for all of our learners.

Thanks for another positive week everyone.

ROOM 1 NEWS

At the pools I went down the river ride and it was my favourite thing on the trip. The world has a crust and under the crust is the mantle and under the mantle is the core. Te Papa is so strong it won't fall down if there is an earthquake.

ROOM 2 NEWS

Yesterday I went to Te Papa. I went with Mum and Jacob came too. We learnt about earthquakes. Earthquakes are big spinning and shaking things. Earthquakes are made by plates. Then we built a puzzle and played Minecraft. It was easy. We went swimming. There was a wave pool and it drifted me backwards. I went down the slide. My favourite slide was the blue slide because it had good speed. I didn't like the black slide because I kept banging my head. I didn't like the yellow slide because the water splashed all over me. I had a good day.
