Weekly Panui - Monday 18th November 2019

Kia ora whanau,

This year for our end of year parent-teacher interviews we are holding them on Wednesday 11 December (after reports have been sent home), from 8.30am-4.30pm. Each interview is 10 minutes long (for each student) to ensure you have the opportunity to ask any questions you have regarding their progress over the year, hear how they are doing academically, socially, emotionally and physically at school (in relation to other children their age across New Zealand). We are asking that your children do not attend school for the day to allow their teachers to carry out the interviews over the course of the day (you are welcome to bring them along while you attend any interviews – I am happy to supervise the playground and outdoor areas, or library if raining). We are trialling this as it is becoming increasingly difficult for the teachers to fit in all the interviews in an afternoon-evening timeframe – given the increasing size of our classes. I also think if we really value these interviews as a meaningful sharing time between teacher and parent/caregiver, then we should give them a priority in their placement during the day. If this is a problem for you, please don't hesitate to let me know.

The teachers are currently gathering data, running assessments, using the Learning Progression Frameworks and the PaCT (progress and consistency tool) to measure where each student is regarding reading, writing and maths – moderated against other students in our school and New Zealand. PaCT is a tool designed to help teachers make dependable judgments about students' achievement that can be used to track progress in reading, writing, and mathematics. Teachers locate students on the Learning Progression Frameworks (LPFs) as they make judgments in PaCT. PaCT guides teachers to make best-fit decisions about their students' achievement in each of the aspects of the reading, writing, and mathematics frameworks. PaCT synthesises a teacher's aspect judgments into a PaCT scale score which is displayed in relation to the levels of the New Zealand Curriculum (NZC). PaCT includes psychometrically calibrated measurement scales that are based on teachers' judgments of student achievement rather than direct assessments of the students themselves. The PaCT scale is a linear scale that extends from 0 to 1300. Each part of this scale is associated with a curriculum level. These tools, along with the teachers' everyday observations, student bookwork and other formative assessments, build a very thorough assessment basis from which we write reports and carry out an in depth analysis of your child with you. The assessment data also helps teachers formulate planning for the next term, as it can highlight areas of weakness across their class, the wider school or a group of students.

Please complete the form attached to this newsletter to let us know if you are able to keep your child/ren home on the day of Parent-teacher interviews and to indicate the time slot/s that best suit to talk with the teachers regarding your child's progress, next step learning and how they are doing in general at school.
